Soldiers Guard Governor Small

Illinois Chief Announces He Will Not Submit to Warrant for Arrest.

"KING CAN DO NO WRONG"
Governor's Attorneys Charge Anarchy Will Result If Small Is Arrested.

By United Press Leased Wire Springfield, Ill.—State troops if necessary will be used by Gov. Len Small to resist arrest on charges of juggling millions of dollars of state funds, the executive announced Friday.

The governor declared he could not submit to arrest without violating his oath of office.

"I will use all the power I possess to resist arrest," the governor said. The statement was made public as his attorneys argued before Judge Smith in circuit court the point of law that the "king can do no wrong" and therefore the chief executive officer of a state is not subject to the powers of the courts.

Soldiers are already guarding and protecting the governor. Small detachments of troops were seen, unostentatiously, around the capitol grounds and through the state house. The governor's attorneys, in their argument to the court, cited a hypothetical case wherein they outlined the situation which would result if a governor was accused of a crime, the sheriff's forces attempted to arrest him, the governor as commander in chief of the military forces called on the troops to resist and an armed clash followed.

"Anarchy will follow," the attorneys told the court. "The house of government is divided against itself."

Trial May Be Delayed.
Judge E. S. Smith, in his conclusion of the answer to the governor's claim, by State's Attorney Mortimer, was expected to rule immediately on whether the governor was above all power of the courts, or whether the executive must submit to the court decrees the same as any other person. In case the court upholds Small's contention, the governor cannot be brought to trial until his term expires in 1924.

If the stand taken by Small is declared illegal, warrants will be handed to Sheriff Henry Mester and arrest of the governor will be ordered.

The governor's attorneys advised him that he must not submit to arrest and trial, as that would be subordinating the executive branch of the state government to the judicial. The governor has said he will follow the advice of his attorneys which means he will resist the court by force if necessary.

Could Pardon Himself.
Legal advisors of the executive informed the court that the constitution forbids that he submit to arrest. To do so they pointed out, would be a surrender of sovereignty of the executive branch of the government.

The attorneys declared it would be ridiculous to try the governor for a crime, and convict him when he would have power to pardon himself. According to the governor's friends, he is willing to have a "fair and impartial trial" but they declare he could not get it in Sangamon county. The county officials are bitter political enemies of the governor.

IDENTIFY BODY FOUND IN BIG CHICAGO HOTEL

By United Press Leased Wire Chicago, Ill.—The body of a man found dead in the Morrison hotel here was identified Friday by Mayor W. N. McHenry of Lowell, Mich., as that of Chas. H. McCarthy, Rochester, Minn. McCarthy graduated from the medical school of Michigan university a year ago and went to the Rochester clinic. Twenty bottles filled with various sorts of medicines, including veronal, were found in the room. Authorities believe he might have accidentally taken an overdose of veronal.

EIGHT DROWN WHILE AT CHURCH GATHERING

By United Press Leased Wire Palacios, Tex.—Eight persons were dead Friday and three others near death as the result of being caught in the undertow while bathing in the gulf at the mouth of Green's bayou. Those drowned were members of a party attending the Baptist Young People's union encampment here.

WORTHLESS STOCKS TAKE PLACE OF BANK'S CASH

Chicago, Ill.—A shortage of approximately $500,000 was revealed Friday in the preliminary audit of books of the Michigan Avenue Trust company, closed by state banking officials. Approximately one half million dollars in cash was reported taken from the bank and replaced by worthless stocks and other securities of little value.

U.S. WILL OPEN MEETING DOORS TO ALL NATIONS

Belgium Told It Can Be Represented When Vital Interests Are Discussed.

By United Press Leased Wire Washington, D. C.—The United States has advised Belgium and other interested powers that when the Far Eastern question is brought up in the Washington disarmament conference in such a way as to affect the interests of those nations there will be no difficulty in being represented, it was learned Friday.

The other nations so advised are understood to be Holland and Portugal, who with Belgium have large interests in the Far East. Secretary of State Hughes has advised these nations of this attitude only in a tentative way and has not committed the government, as it is not desired to open this question to all countries of the world before there is a definite agreement among the powers to participate in the conference.

This announcement today on official authority was made in response to reports from Europe telling of the concern of Belgium at not being invited to the conference. No word had been yet received by the state department from the Japanese government, but authorities believed that Japan's acceptance of the proposed Far Eastern and Pacific discussions is now only a matter of a few hours. Hughes has been advised of the meeting today in Tokyo of the diplomatic advisory council, which is to give a final decision on the question of Japan's participation in the Pacific discussion.

Baron Shidehara is thought to have told Hughes late yesterday that the diplomatic council will make a favorable decision.

MINISTERS DISCUSS COURSE IN SILESIA

By United Press Leased Wire Paris.—The Franco-British dispute over the allied course in upper Silesia was taken up Friday by the council of ministers.

Strolling over the grounds of President Millerand's summer home, Rambouillet, the ministers heard from Premier Briand himself on his policy of rushing additional troops into Silesia, in opposition to Great Britain's desire to await a report from allied experts charged with dividing the territory between Poland and Germany. The question, particularly, as it bore on the British plans, evoked animated discussion.

Bandit Scorned "Change" For Bills Of Large Value

Big booty appeared to be all that attracted the bandit who robbed Outagamie County bank Thursday afternoon. Dollar bills and silver lay before him but he ignored all this "small change" and took only five, ten and twenty-dollar bills. The exact amount of his haul was about $8,000, according to a statement made by Frank Groh, cashier, all of which is covered by insurance.

The matter-of-fact methods and cleverness of the bandit are baffling to bank officials and the police. He was believed to be a customer until he produced his revolver. Siefert Lehrer, Miss Jeanette Brill, 1091 Spencer-st., and Miss Marion Butler, 1020 Sixth-st., entered the lobby while the robbery was in progress but the actions of the man made them believe he was an employee. He walked from behind the cages at an ordinary gait and hardly quickened his steps when he passed through the front door.

Acted Like an Employee.
Mr. Lehrer came in to make a deposit. He saw no one until he got up to the window then spied the thief. He supposed the man was an employee counting money. Mr. Lehrer's version of the affair makes it appear that the man might have a confederate. He says the bandit walked to the rear door of the bank carrying bunches of money in both hands, but returned in about a minute with his hands empty. He tried the door of the safety deposit vault, but it did not enter. The man then walked back of the cages and entered the lobby through Mr. Groh's office. He carried no grip, or bag and nothing of

U. S. CAN'T BE ATTENTIVE TO LEAGUE WANTS

Policy of President and Senate Make Answering of Mail Impossible.

NO PLACE IN WORLD COURT
Membership in World Tribunal Hoped for When Attitude Changes.

By DAVID LAWRENCE Copyright, 1921 by Post Pub. Co. Washington.—The United States government is not intentionally ignoring communications from the League of Nations and has not failed to note the invitation to this government to become a member of the World Court of International Justice created by the league.

This attitude was made known today at the department of state to offset published stories giving the impression that the United States was somehow offending the League of Nations by refusing to deal with its letters and communications.

In the first place, the permanent secretary of the league has been sending out printed circulars to the various governments of the world and it was but natural that one of the government bureaus filed the circulars without regarding them in the same light as formal communications.

America Staying Out.
But what the secretary of the League of Nations hasn't evidently taken into consideration is that while all communications are duly received and filed, the state department is powerless to deal with league because of the expressed desire of the president of the United States that America stay out of the league and the evident concurrence of the senate in that view.

Ambassador Harvey went a step further in his speech in London by saying the United States wouldn't even deal directly or indirectly with any committee or creature of the League of Nations and that's why both the White House and department of state would be embarrassed in dealing with the world court for it would mean a repudiation of Ambassador Harvey's expression of American foreign policy.

World Court Coming.
Thus far the executive branch of the United States government has not acted on the invitation to become a member of the world court. That invitation is still pending.

FOREIGNERS GATHER TO STUDY PLANT DISEASES

By United Press Leased Wire Fargo, N. D.—Forty delegates from part of the United States started on a tour of Australia, England, Japan and every tour of Gass county Friday to study plant diseases. They are attending the meeting of the American Phytopathological society. A banquet will be served here tonight. Dr. E. J. Butler of London and Dr. S. Miyabe of Japan are delegates.

REMOTE CHANCE OF NEW LABOR POLITICAL PARTY

By United Press Leased Wire Manitowish.—A poll of the delegates attending the state convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor here Friday disclosed a remote chance of organized labor forming a new political party in Wisconsin this year.

The delegates, at least a majority, want a committee appointed to consider the feasibility of fostering a new party and report to the 1922 convention. This appeared to be the likely course the federation would pursue. The business depression mitigated against a new political party at this time, delegates said.

OFFICER DENIES GETTING BRIBE IN BERGDOLL'S CASE

Army Captain Says He Can Prove Where He Received $5,000 in 1920.

By United Press Leased Wire Washington, D. C.—"My answer to Mrs. Bergdoll's charges that I demanded $100,000 from her and that I obtained $5,000 to obtain her son's release is that it is false in every particular," Major Bruce Campbell stated before the house Bergdoll committee Friday.

"There is not a word of truth in it," Campbell said. Campbell admitted that he deposited $4,500 in bills with Wasserman Bros. New York brokers, on February 20, 1920. Mrs. Bergdoll charged she paid $5,000 to her son for Campbell, the latter part of January, 1920. The major claimed that he had deposited more than $5,000 in the Seaboard National bank of New York in 1917.

"The public would not accuse me of accepting a bribe from the Bergdolls in 1917," he said. "I deposited that $5,000 in November or December 1917. I can show that I was in position to have $5,000 without resorting to the Bergdoll bank account. It seems to me fair to presume that if I had $5,000 in 1917 I might have it in 1920."

Pressed by the committee Campbell said that he would later trace the exact source of the $4,500 deposited with Wasserman Bros. "I desire to present evidence to corroborate my case," he said, "but it will require a little time." He said papers bearing on the case are in a box car with his furniture somewhere between Long Island and Camp Pike, Ark.

NAME SIX MEN TO LIQUIDATE BILLS

By United Press Leased Wire Washington, D. C.—President Harding Friday named a commission to liquidate $211,000,000 worth of claims against the shipping board as follows: Walter D. Meals, former associate of the Ohio appellate court, chairman; Thomas E. Brown, former president of the chamber of commerce of the United States, now president of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company.

S. W. Wood, former president of the Maryland Steel company. Captain Richard M. Watt, U. S. navy. Arthur Teele, accountant. O. M. Brown of Washington, secretary.

KENOSHA POLICE HEADS UNDER SHARP ATTACK

By United Press Leased Wire Kenosha, Wis.—The Kenosha police department was brought under fire again Friday when formal charges were preferred against John Cysak, captain of police, and Charles Rock, E. E. Palmer, trustee of the village of Winthrop Harbor, south of here on the Illinois line, charged the men with driving through the streets of the village in an automobile while in a drunken condition and endangering the lives of pedestrians. He made the further charge that the Kenosha policemen attempted to arrest a young man for trying to interfere with them, though they had no authority in Illinois and that they used vile language in the presence of women.

Chief of Police Thad Logan charged a full investigation of the charges today.

SHEBOYGAN MAN HEADS VETERANS' AID BUREAU

Sheboygan, Wis.—Howard B. Day was named Thursday supervisor of vocational training for disabled former service men with headquarters in Milwaukee. He replaces F. C. Braun, whose removal was sought by the American legion as the outgrowth of charges and a demand for his transfer. The removal was hastened through the efforts of Col. Edward J. Barrett, state commander of the American legion.

Day is an experienced local supervisor and a former service man. He will assume the new office Monday. Braun was under fire at the state convention of the American legion at Eau Claire.

IRISH LEFT IN DOUBT ABOUT SCOPE OF PACT

DeValera on Way Home With Great Britain's Peace Offer to Ireland.

By United Press Leased Wire London.—"President" De Valera, carried Great Britain's peace offer to Ireland Friday.

"Though the immediate future is uncertain," he told a cheering crowd which bade him farewell at a railway station here, "we have perfect confidence in the ultimate success of our cause."

De Valera's train left at 7:30 a. m. but the early hour did not deter hundreds of Irish enthusiasts from crowding the platform at which the train stood. The smoky aisles were massed with men and women under a forest of Sinn Fein flags and Self Determination banners.

The Sinn Fein leaders left the peace situation distinctly pessimistic although it was regarded as almost certain that the conferences with Premier Lloyd George will be resumed within a fortnight.

The Sinn Feiners were greatly disappointed at the terms offered them by the premier. They regarded the proposals as indefinite and unsatisfactory.

If the offer is the maximum, it was learned authoritatively the conferences will end without the waste of much time. The Sinn Feiners however, do not believe that the government will refuse to clarify the proposals. Likewise, because of the government's preparedness, the Irish have a breaking off of negotiations now would be more to Lloyd George's advantage than to the Sinn Fein's.

Lloyd George's offer, which was not specific, left De Valera and his aids ignorant of the degree of home rule which will be offered Ireland. They hold that the most vital of all questions.

HARDING, FIRESTONE AND EDISON PLAN AN OUTING

By United Press Leased Wire Hagerstown, Md.—President Harding may spend the weekend near here in camp with Henry Ford, H. S. Firestone and Thomas A. Edison, it was learned Friday.

Employees of Ford are already near Hagerstown setting up the camp. Harding is said to be desirous of making the trip and has completed all arrangements which only an emergency will change.

ANOTHER MAN IS SLAIN IN "BLOODY WARD FEUD"

By United Press Leased Wire Chicago, Ill.—The "bloody nineteenth" ward, political feud claimed new victim Friday. Andrea Ortolano, a close friend of "Tony" D'Andrea political leader who was shot recently, was found murdered in his auto. He had been shot six times in the back.

Interests and army and navy profiteers are behind the movement to bring back beer and light wine, according to the chairman of the anti-alcohol committee, issued Friday by the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league through R. P. Hutton, state superintendent.

"Certain special private interests are for beer, expecting to have their taxes reduced by raising a billion dollars annually from the appetites of the poor," the statement said in calling upon the drays of Wisconsin to awake and fight for prohibition. The present demand for disarmament is because, with the liquor revenue gone, the navy and army costs come as a direct tax," the statement said in charging the navy and army profiteers are backing the wet movement at Washington.

English capital owns the bulk of American brewery stock, according to Hutton, and with French wine interests are backing the movement to change the Volstead act to allow beer and light wine.

The situation at Washington, according to the statement, is sufficiently alarming to bring pressure to bear on the representatives by the drays "back home."

Trail Leads From Bank To Fourth Ward Depot

Police Believe Bandit Left Appleton by Train or Street Car — Find Straw Hat in Ravine — Sure Bandit Worked Alone and Was on Foot

A bloodhound Friday morning was placed on the trail of the lone bandit who robbed the Outagamie County State bank of approximately $9,000 Thursday noon but the scent was lost at the Chicago and Northwestern depot in the Fourth ward and it is believed the robber escaped from Appleton on an afternoon train. Chief George T. Prim and his aides this afternoon are working on new clues but it is quite evident that the robber has escaped from the city.

It has been almost definitely established that the bandit was without accomplices. He was seen by several persons immediately after the robbery and there is every indication that it was a one man job. The theory that the money was handed out a rear door of the bank to a confederate awaiting outside has been blasted by investigations.

INSURE BIG EXHIBIT OF CATTLE AT FAIR

Holstein Breeders Appoint Committees to Arrange for Hortonsville Fair.

Active preparations for the best cattle exhibit in the history of Hortonsville fair were started Thursday with the appointment of a committee by Walter Wickett, president of Outagamie County Holstein Breeders' association, to arrange the exhibits. He named W. H. Steffensen, Fred Muehlberg of Hortonville, and Paul O. Nyhus.

This committee will make a concerted effort to get a creditable showing of Holsteins at the fair. Breeders will be urged by personal visitation and by letter to pick out their best animals and enter them for display. As many herds as possible will be visited by the committee and the finest animals chosen.

Breeders will not be burdened with the duty of remaining with their animals throughout the year while at the fair. The association will engage a man who will devote his entire time to care of the animals. All premium money will go to the owners and not to the association.

Sanitation will be one of the new and important features of this year. Every animal shown must be free from tuberculosis according to tests taken within six months of the fair date. The grounds around and about the exhibition will be disinfected thoroughly, and other precautions taken to prevent exhibition cows from becoming infected.

This is the first time a united effort has been made to insure a high class exhibit of animals at a fair in Outagamie county. With so many farmers visiting the fair, show herds containing the pick of animals will be considered the most effective way of inducing others to improve their herds.

RETURNS FROM TRIP INTO HEART OF BANDIT COUNTRY

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Challoner, 524 Pearl-st., have returned from a camping trip to Lakewood, which was right in the midst of the excitement of the Wabeno bank robbery. They lived in a tent which was pitched near the road along which the bandit made his getaway. They were suddenly awakened in the middle of the night by the sound of the car as it passed within 16 feet of them, but did not learn until the next morning the cause of the commotion.

Cars filled with armed men kept coming and going constantly on that road, each man with his own version of the story. All the roads were carefully guarded and when he saw the highways were barred, the robber made for the swamp where he disappeared. Mrs. Challoner said that all car owners took the precaution of guarding their machines from the bandit.

Girl Thought "Hands Up" Command Was Only A Joke

How would you feel if a rough looking man pointed a Colt automatic at you and said in a crisp not-to-be-fooled-with air "Hands up?" What are the sensations of one who is held up?

Miss Monica Kraft of the Outagamie County bank, who experienced this novel sensation Thursday afternoon, when the bank was robbed says it is a hot and cold sensation and she knows! "It surely was a great experience, one that I will never forget as long as I live," declared Miss Kraft.

She said things happened so rapidly that there was no time for anyone to get really frightened. "I was standing a little distance from Mr. Dohr when a man walked in. Mr. Dohr thinking he wanted something stepped to his window. I heard the stranger say 'Hands up' but I thought it was a joke and smiled at him. He turned to me and said 'You, too, lady.' As I hesitated, he said, 'Stick 'em up' and I realized it was not a joke. He asked where the currency was and then backed us into the vault and closed the door. About that time I didn't know whether my heart was in my mouth or in my shoes."

Whistled as He Worked.
Miss Kraft said that Wednesday night she had spoken of the young door bang as he made his dramatic exit, whistling as he went, they emerged and sent the call for the police.

There were a few people in the lobby, but they didn't suspect the man at all, supposing him to be an employee. Miss Kraft said that there would have been no chance to operate the burglar alarm had one been connected because they were watched so very carefully. She said that as soon as the word was out men, women and children crowded to the bank and asked to have the story repeated over and over again until they hardly knew what they were saying. In the midst of all the excitement, however, Miss Kraft was careful enough to observe the bandit closely so that she could identify him were she to see him again.

Bandit "Tips" Keep Sheriff On The Jump

Sheriff P. G. Schwartz is kept busy these days chasing will o' the-wisp bank robbers and bandits.

Twice on Wednesday he received calls telling him of men seen in this locality who were believed to be the bold bandits who robbed the Wabeno State bank last Friday. So, carefully loaded and ready to grasp the big reward offered for the apprehension of the robbers, Sheriff Schwartz set out. One of the calls took him to Medina.

A man had been seen walking along the road carrying a bag that looked heavy and suspicious. However, an investigation revealed that he was an innocent pedestrian. Early Thursday morning he was called out when a big red automobile was seen traveling along the road at high speed. The driver proved to be a woman on her way to her day's employment.

These little incidents are annoying of course, but Sheriff Schwartz is aware that there are often big possibilities in little tips so he watches and waits.

BUSINESS IS POOR IN SOUTHWEST U. S.

W. W. DeLong, who returned from Mound, Okla., Thursday after a seventh months' absence, said the business depression in that state is very pronounced and that conditions are becoming serious.

Oil drillers who were earning $12 and $14 a day a year ago are now working in the harvest fields for $3 a day. A year ago harvest hands were paid $8. Thousands of men are out of employment and are willing to do any kind of work to keep the wolf from the door.

The oil industry is at a standstill, and practically nothing is being done in the way of developing oil properties.

Mr. DeLong returned to Appleton to attend a meeting next Monday evening of the Mound Oil Co. which is composed almost entirely of Appleton stockholders. He has had charge of the property while in Oklahoma and will submit his report and recommendations.

GAVE BURGLARY ALARM BEFORE BANK IS ROBBED

An incident that may establish a clew as to the identity of the man who robbed the Outagamie County bank occurred at Black Creek Thursday morning, according to H. J. Brandt, garage owner at Black Creek.

Early Thursday morning, Mr. Brandt said, a large Jefferys machine containing two men and one woman drove into the garage for water and slight repairs. The woman appeared hysterical and exclaimed to the garage men that an Appleton bank had just been robbed of $39,000. Inasmuch as this was said to have occurred previous to the robbery, considerable importance is attached to it by the authorities. An attempt to trace the machine now is being made.

BROTHER ARRIVES IN TIME TO ATTEND KONZ FUNERAL

The plant of the Konz Box and Lumber Co. at the old fair grounds on west College-ave. has been closed down this week out of respect for Felix Konz who met his death in a motorcycle accident and whose funeral will be held from St. Joseph church Saturday morning. Operations will be resumed Monday morning.

The funeral was delayed several days because of the inability to locate Rudolph Konz of the United States marine who reached Appleton Thursday night. At the time of the accident the sailor was on his way from San Francisco, Calif., to Bremerton, Wash., on the U. S. S. New Mexico, which went into drydock upon reaching Bremerton.

C. OF C. TO PAY PART OF LICENSE CHARGED CIRCUS

Advance Man Peeved Because City "Fines" Ringlings for Having Big Show.

Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus, which will be here Aug. 17, will be reimbursed by the chamber of commerce for the difference between what the showmen considered a reasonable license and the amount charged by the city. This was decided by the directors at the bi-weekly meeting Thursday evening in the Sherman house, when it became a question whether the show would go to Oshkosh or come here.

Albert Butler, advance man for the circus, appeared before the directors and told them he believed it an injustice to be taxed the maximum license fee for a big show of its type and character. He said the city permitted small shows of a more objectionable nature to come here for a week and charge them much less. The circus was of a high standard and had an educational value, and it looked as if the city was fining Ringling brothers $50 for having such an excellent show. The company would be willing and glad to pay $50 but thought the charge of $100 was unfair.

Merchants who had voiced their desire to have the circus come here got together during the day and subscribed the entire amount of $100 for license and water fee, instructing that the circus be refunded that amount. The directors felt that every member of the chamber was benefited by having the show here, so voted to pay back $50 and let the circus pay its fee of $50. The merchants are to be thanked for their cooperation and notified that their pledges need not be paid.

Activities of the chamber of commerce are to be kept before the public through newspaper advertisements hereafter, the directors voted. The program for Appleton will be announced and each item checked off as it is accomplished. Past and current accomplishments also will be noted.

E. A. Schmalz, chairman of the retail trades committee, made a report telling what had been done to put a stop to fake or worthless solicitation and advertising schemes with which the merchants are benighted.

WANT GOVERNOR TO KEEP HIGHWAY BOSS

County Commissioners Oppose
Acceptance of Hirst's Resignation.

County Highway Commissioner A. G. Brusewitz has received a copy of a petition which is being circulated among county highway committees and commissioners asking that Governor J. J. Blaine refuse to accept the resignation of State Highway Engineer A. R. Hirst.

Mr. Hirst submitted his resignation following the defeat of the Hirst automobile tax bill in the last session of the legislature. He felt that with out the revenue which would be derived from a tax of this kind he could not carry on the program of road improvement which he had formulated.

The petition declares that inasmuch as Mr. Hirst has spent the best part of his life in the service of the state and because his knowledge of highway conditions is so extensive, it would be an acute loss for the administration to let him go. Mr. Hirst is given much praise in the petition for the great work he has done in directing a highway construction program unparalleled in the history of any state or country.

FOUR INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Four people suffered slight injuries and two machines were badly damaged in an automobile collision at Greenville corners about 6.30 Thursday evening.

Mike Radtke who was driving a Maxwell car west toward New London was accompanied by Otto Heindrich, Irvin Gruntzel and Charles Koptiskau. At the intersection of highways 39 and 122 just outside of Greenville their machine was struck in the rear by a Buick driven by Oscar Pingel of West Greenville. The force of the collision threw Radtke and his companions out of the car. All of them suffered cuts and bruises but it is believed Radtke's injuries may be more serious. Pingel was not hurt.

COMMUNITY BETTERMENT FILM TO BE SHOWN HERE

Chamber of commerce members will have an opportunity to see the moving picture, "Valley of Hearts Delight" sometime this fall. Dr. Robert Hyronimus of the University of Illinois has assured Secretary Hugh B. Corbett that Appleton will have use of the film.

The film was here for several days in June and was to be used at the meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Secretaries at Oshkosh, but arrived too late. It was prepared by the chamber of commerce at San Jose, Calif. showing work and accomplishments of that organization in bettering the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rademacher returned to Milwaukee Friday, where they will visit friends for a week.

A WARNING TO APPLETON

The robbery of the Outagamie County bank Thursday afternoon came as suddenly and surprisingly as a "thunderbolt from a clear sky." The cleverness and daring of the burglar and apparent complete success of his get-away seems almost incredible. The extreme to which a man will go to get money is vividly portrayed by the nerve of this lone bandit. He walked into the bank in broad daylight, backed the clerks into the vault at the point of a revolver, coolly gathered up most of the currency on the counter—doing much of the work in full view of customers in the bank lobby—and whistling, departed by the front door, as cool and collected as though nothing had happened. His success in covering his tracks was equally well planned.

This incident should be a warning to all business houses in Appleton. In spite of the fact that we have a most efficient police force and that the bank in question was doing everything in its power to insure safety by installing a burglar alarm system, the unexpected has happened and no one can tell who may be the next victim. Many business firms in Appleton have grown careless. Take for instance the large sums of money which are entrusted to young boy and girl messengers for deposit in our banks. These messengers are usually unprotected and are easy prey for experienced hold-up men.

For many months during the latter part of last year and during the early part of this, Chicago and suburban points were the scene of robberies which astounded the country by their boldness and success. Banks were pillaged in broad daylight, jewelry and other stores robbed and pedestrians held up right and left. It was one of the notable epidemics of crime in the country's history.

This crime wave followed in the wake of depressed business conditions. It is now reaching out into more remote districts, just as the industrial slump started in the large centers and extended later to the smaller cities and communities. The two bank robberies, at Wabeno and in our city, in the last few days which have amazed the state by their daring, have a striking resemblance to the hold-ups which for a long time left the people and business establishments of Chicago virtually at the mercy of bandits.

It is not improbable that these robberies are an extension of a reflex of the banditry in Chicago. Months of intensive police activity have made it hot for the criminals of the large cities. Possibly they have emigrated to the country where they find easier picking. Possibly it is home talent, taking its cue from examples which have figured so strongly in the limelight.

Whatever the facts may be, it is wisdom to recognize a situation which exists and to act accordingly. Every bank, store and manufacturing concern in Appleton would do well to take every precaution which may be exercised to safeguard their establishments and their funds. Country banks should be well guarded. Business firms which handle large sums of money or valuables should do the same. Other robberies may be attempted in this city. We should be prepared. After what occurred Thursday every city and town in the state should take warning. It is altogether probable there will be other hold-ups. Banditry runs in waves. Vigilance and defense are the only guarantees of security. They should not be found wanting wherever protection is needed.

THE INDICTMENT OF SMALL

Surrounding states, in fact the entire country, has an interest in the arrest of Governor Len Small and other officials of Illinois, on the charges of conspiracy and embezzlement of large sums of public funds. They have been indicted by a grand jury which investigated the use of state moneys. It is charged that part of the funds of the state were loaned at a high rate of interest and the state credited with but two per cent, the defendants pocketing the balance. Governor Small and the other accused men deny the charges. Only a trial can determine whether they are guilty or innocent.

The indictments, however, serve to call attention to the deplorable condition of politics in Illinois. The election of Len Small as governor was an expansion of the Thompson machine power of Chicago into the state. The press of Chicago has been waging a bitter and uncompromising fight on this machine. They have charged crookedness of every sort in Chicago, with the result that Mayor Thompson is being sued for large sums of money and he has retaliated by suing the newspapers for libel.

There is little doubt that the newspapers are right. They probably know what they are doing and in due time they will expose the ring and bring its leaders and their exploitations to a finish. No politicians with a shady reputation or engaged in wrongdoing have ever been able to withstand the offensive of the press. Sooner or later they come to grief and it is invariably the newspapers which accomplish their undoing.

Whether Small and Thompson personally are in vulnerable positions remains to be seen, but straws are not wanting to indicate that the temperature of the atmosphere in which they circulate is rapidly going up. If they really have "the goods" on Small the people may look for the grand smash any day. Thompson is having a desperate time holding the fort in Chicago. Sensational developments are occurring there every few days and the climax does not seem to be far off. A conference between Small, Thompson and Lundin, and we may have the last stand. It is one of the greatest fights between vicious politics and good government ever staged in the west. In the end good government is certain to triumph, and for the victory it will have the press to thank.

THE SHIPPING BOARD REVELATIONS

The information given to the public by Chairman Lasker of the shipping board concerning the financial condition of that corporation is simply dumfounding. We have heard for the last two years stories and charges about the scandalous conduct of the government's ship program during the war, but nothing like the proportions it now assumes under Mr. Lasker's investigation had been dreamed of. Hundreds of millions of dollars are involved in this scandal. Either the taxpayers have been robbed of these large sums or there has been the grossest incompetency and extravagance in their use.

The natural inference, supported by innumerable precedents of the past, is that there has been wholesale graft. Whenever huge sums of money are not accounted for in public service, the American assumption is that it has been stolen, and that generally is the correct assumption. Our political system is built up on the theory of plunder and privilege, and there seems to be no limit to the prosecution of either so long as detection can be avoided. When the light is turned on and a mess is revealed, the guilty profess surprise and indignation and the public shrugs its shoulders and swallows the medicine. Rarely is the medicine swallowed by the grafter.

This seems to be the status of the shipping board operations. Books and accounts are in a "deplorable condition," and "could not have been kept in much different shape had they been kept with a view to cheating and deceiving congress and the country." In view of the fact that the deficit is shown to be $380,000,000 instead of the $100,000,000 first reported, there would appear to be more than ordinary significance to this cryptic comment of Chairman Lasker.

For once in our history we ought to go to the bottom of this public scandal. If there is no irregularity or wrongdoing the country should know. If on the other hand men of affairs to whom have been entrusted the handling of the government's ship undertaking are not above dishonesty, graft and unscrupulousness let us have the full facts. It may not be possible to send them to the penitentiary, but they can be held up before the nation for what they really are and for its moral castigation. Good comes from revelations of this kind only when they bring home to the people a stronger sense of their personal responsibility. Mere exposure or punishment does not correct such abuses. The people alone can correct them by accepting their obligations as citizens and voters, and discharging them fearlessly and intelligently. The country needs the full facts about the shipping orgy in order that it may profit by the experience.

THE ORDEALS OF A VACATION.

Poison ivy has three separate leaves on one stem, whereas a common harmless shrub often confused with it, called Virginia creeper, has five leaves on one stem. Poison ivy has smooth whitish fruits resembling mistletoe berries, somewhat less than one-half inch in diameter and containing a single seed. Remember that the poison ivy has three separate leaves on the stem, and not a three-pointed leaf. The leaves are usually indented or notched, often more so on one side.

The itching or burning of the skin begins at any time from a few hours to four or five days after exposure to the plant. Were it not for the great weakness of bathing this irritation would probably be confined to the face and hands or other ordinarily exposed portions of the body; but the average vacationist takes some kind of bath and spreads the inflammation over the rest of the body; or he spreads the poison around with his hands, rubbing or scratching himself. The inflammation may amount to nothing more than a redness and swelling, though generally the skin becomes blistered.

Best first aid for one known to have been exposed is very many rinsings with soapy water, freshly prepared for each rinsing. Or immediately after the exposure, leaving the soap on the skin for hours. If you know you are going to be exposed, smearing the face and hands with lather or with vaseline is an excellent protection.

An excellent dressing for ivy poisoning consists of large compresses of muslin or gauze kept constantly wet with soapy water, or with a solution of a handful of saleratus in a basin of water—these alkalis tend to neutralize the acid irritant of poison ivy. If blisters appear they should be carefully opened by puncture at the lower border with a flamed or soaped needle through a spot of skin touched first with tincture of iodine, and the fluid carefully pressed out and absorbed with cotton or a clean towel and carefully kept from further contact with the skin. When the inflammation is no longer increasing, the inflamed area may be dressed with plain zinc oxide ointment.

This lotion is good to relieve the itching and burning in the earlier stage of ivy poisoning.
Powdered calamine 2 drams
Zinc oxide 3 drams
Glycerin 1 ounce (half ounce)
Lime water 2 ounces
Rose water 4 ounces
Phenol 1/4 dram (half dram)
Shake well, and apply by patting with the fingers as often as desired.

Persons susceptible to ivy poisoning and necessarily frequently exposed, or suffering with prolonged skin trouble following ivy poisoning, may immunize themselves by taking the following internally, beginning with one drop after each meal, in half a glass of water, and increasing by a drop each successive dose, until 21 drops are taken at the end of the week, then a teaspoonful once a day for three weeks, and occasionally a teaspoonful throughout the season:
Tincture (10%) of poison ivy leaf, 15 drops
Glycerin 2 drams
Syrup of orange, M. T. 2 ounces

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Variety Better Than Quantity.

Is it better for one's health to eat a greater variety of foods at one meal or a great quantity of one kind? (Mrs. M. H.)
Answer—Variety is better.

Automobile Riding.

Is it harmful in any way for an expectant mother to ride in an automobile? (Mrs. E. L. G.)
Answer—Not as a rule, but her own physician is the one qualified to advise her about all such matters.

Exposing the Baby.

Being a person of more than average intelligence (as I flatter myself) especially along scientific lines, I can appreciate to the full your excellent advice. I always hold my husband up at the door and refuse to serve his dinner until I have read your article. I will greatly appreciate your advising me whether you consider it harmful to take young babies in the street. (Mrs. E. M. T.)
Answer—Only in so far as such travel in crowded conveyances exposes the baby, whose natural resistance is not yet developed, to all sorts of infections. Such travel necessarily brings the baby's nose and mouth within the five-foot barage, the splash of germ-laden moisture given off from the mouths of passengers in ordinary conversation. I hope this doesn't seem too scientific, for in my judgment it is a vital matter.

Charles Boyd was enjoying a two weeks' vacation at his home in Appleton. He entertained members of the Club at breakfast in honor of her guest, Miss Ida Slifer of Philadelphia.

Prof. and Mrs. Nicholson rented one of the houses in course of erection at the head of John-st. hill and intended to make it their home upon its completion. Dr. Byron Douglas was reelected treasurer of the Wisconsin Dental society at the annual convention at Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Spearman and son, Harry H. Spearman, were visiting relatives and friends here.

A group of young people were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley H. Pierce on a steam launch ride up the river and on Lake Winnebago.

Checkers was the most popular game at the No. 1 engine house and tournaments were continually in progress.

Miss Emma Fynn returned from Washington, D. C., where she was a delegate to the Christian Endeavor convention.

The water in Lake Winnebago had receded to such an extent the crest of the Menasha dam was entirely exposed. The opinion of manufacturers of paper in the valley was that the principal cause of the depressed condition of the paper market was found in the large surplus of paper that was on the market in excess of what was being used, which Col. H. M. Frambach of Kaukauna, estimated at from 20 to 25 per cent.

Thirty-five cookings were taken from the two digesters of the Falls Manufacturing Co. the week previous, which broke all former records.

The Size Of The House

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington.—Sometime before the present Congress expires the House, with concurrence of the senate, must pass a law determining what its own size is to be for the next 10 years.

An effort was made to get this business out of the way during the closing days of the last session, but the senate refused to pass the measure which had been adopted by the house.

The fight on this legislation has so many angles that the census committee of the house, charged with the responsibility of formulating the measure, is having a hard time of it. There has been a great deal of sentiment manifested against the apportionment of representatives so that any state would lose any of the seats it now holds in the house of representatives. There is brought forward the argument that the present size of the house, 435 members, makes efficient legislation work harder than if there were approximately 300 representatives.

Another view, strongly supported, would limit the number of members of the house to 435, and work out the new apportionment on that basis. This was strongly opposed on the ground that some states would lose some of their seats, on the basis of the last decennial census, while there would be corresponding gains in other states.

Members of the census committee of the house realize that the work they have before them ought to be out of the way as soon as possible, as the outlining of congressional districts under the new apportionment must be made by the various state legislatures.

The measure introduced in the house last session by Chairman Siegel, the New York representative, was for each state a number of representatives on the basis of one member for each 33,000 people, the size of the house being 435. On the same basis, 10 years later the house membership numbered 442. The increase continued, with the number of representatives being checked only by increasing the number of persons each was to represent. In 1843, however, congress reduced the size of the house, the only time recorded in history. The ratio of people was increased from 47,700 to 70,650, and this decreased the number of representatives from 242 to 232. In 1853, after the tenth census, congressional representation was based on one for each 151,911 persons, and this increased the size of the house from 232 to 322. Ten years later it became 375, 10 years after this 391, and after the thirteenth census the house grew to its present size of 435 members, on a basis of one member to every 211,877 persons.

Sentiment for limiting the house at least to its present size is fairly strong. This would be accomplished if the ratio of people for congressional districts was fixed at 242,415, or any major fraction of that number of people. The difficulty is that while the total membership would remain the same, eight states would gain members and eleven would lose. The total gain and loss would be 12 seats. California gaining three, Michigan and Ohio two each, while Connecticut, New Jersey, North Carolina, Texas and Washington each would gain a seat.

Offsetting this gain, Missouri would lose two seats, while one seat would be lost in Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, Nebraska, Rhode Island and Vermont. The members who urge that there be no increase declare that there is no duty that 483 members can accomplish which 435 cannot do as well, that the house will be more uninvited and cumbersome than ever if increased in size, and that increasing the membership to 483 will result in additional salaries, clerk hire, mileage, etc., amounting to more than a million dollars annually. Six members of the census committee took this view at the last session, and brought in a minority report to that effect.

THE QUESTION BOX

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medicinal, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic quarrels, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Is it true that a hummingbird's bill consists of a single hollow tube which cannot be opened? A. R. S.
A. The bill of the hummingbird does open, but the lower mandible fits into the upper. The Biological Survey says the tongue of the hummingbird is a double tube.
Q. How high a wind has been observed in the United States? S. L. Y.
A. The Weather Bureau says that a wind velocity of 133 miles an hour has been recorded on Camp Lookout, N. C.
Q. What is the greatest natural waterfall in the world? H. C. K.
A. Niagara Falls are the greatest in the world for volume of water. Victoria Falls have a greater drop.
Q. Please tell me whether La Paz or Sucre is the capital of Bolivia? R. S.
A. The capital of Bolivia (insofar as the seat of government is concerned) is La Paz. Sucre is the legal capital of the country. The business of government is carried on at La Paz because this city is much more accessible.
Q. Where is the new New York City Court House to be located and what will it cost? A. M. N.
A. This circular building with a diameter of 500 feet, will be erected at Worth, Lafayette and Center streets. The estimated cost of building is $10,000,000, cost of site $6,000,000.
Q. Where was jasmine first known? M. C.
A. Jasmine is a native of Persia and was brought to England about 1500 A. D. The yellow variety came from England in 1655.
Q. How did vaudeville get this name? S. M.
A. This word has in some way grown from Vaux de Vire, the name of two valleys in France. A native of Vire composed some satirical drinking songs which became popular throughout France, under the name of Vaux de Vire. The name was used for other collections of songs and became corrupted into voix de ville, and finally to vaudeville.
Q. Are the Indians actually decreasing in numbers? T. H. B.
A. While the 1920 Census shows an actual decrease in the number of Indians, this is explained by the fact that the census enumerators classed as whites, persons having only a slight trace of Indian blood, while in 1910 these were classed as Indians. The Indians have shown very little change in numbers in the past half century.

in which a man climbed up a tree to see Jesus? B. S.

A. The city through which Christ passed and in which Zachaeus, a publican or tax gatherer, climbed up a tree in order to see Him was Jericho. This is related in Luke's Gospel, 19th Chapter, verses 1-10.

Q. What meaning is attached to the name of the French town Carcassone? H. M.

A. Carcassone is used to express a place to which everyone has a particular desire to go. It is a kind of generic term, as it were. The actual town has lured many visitors, since it ranks as "one of the most remarkable monuments of the Middle Ages, existing."

Q. Can I enlist in the United States army or navy at present? W. T.

A. No arm of the United States Service is receiving recruits at present.

Q. What is the difference between wisdom and prudence? O. R.

A. While wisdom leads one to do what is proper, prudence keeps him from doing what is improper.

NOTICE!

(Information to the Public in general)

Whereas we have been continuously probed with questions concerning the controversy between the carpenters and Association contractors, we wish to inform the public that the scale of wages of building crafts for this year already settled is as follows: Plumbers, $1.00 per hour. Tanners, 75c per hour. Painters, 75c per hour. Shop Carpenters, 60c to 75c per hour. Masons settled as far as wages are concerned, $1.00 per hour. Now is 80c per hour too much for outside carpenters who furnish their own tools and considering lost time throughout the year?

If you want carpenter work done, Telephone 1551 or 2081. All our carpenters are covered by compensation insurance. We will supply you with competent carpenters at 85c per hour.

GUARDS PLANNING FOR BLAINE VISIT

Governor and General Haan Expected to Visit Camp Douglas Next Week.

Camp Douglas, Wis.—Guard troops of the 64th Infantry brigade completed the first phase of their schedule of training Thursday night. The first few days were devoted to training in the rudiments of discipline and drill, including school of the soldier, the squad, the platoon and the company in close and extended order.

The five units of the second battalion of the 137th Infantry which took part in a battalion parade with their respective commanding officers are: Headquarters company, Ripon, Capt. Ray E. Searle; company E, Oshkosh, Capt. Harold W. Barker; company F, Sheboygan, Capt. Elmer Meyer; company G, Oconomowoc, Capt. Frank E. Boyle; company H, (machine gun) Menasha, Capt. Richard T. Hill. The battalion is under the command of Maj. Emil G. Prellwitz, Ripon. Adj. Gen. Holway, camp commander, announced on Thursday that on present plans are changed. Gov. John J. Blaine will be in camp next Thursday. Gen. William G. Haan, former commander of the Red Arrow division, may arrive in camp the same day.

The guests of honor will be given an opportunity to see the Badger troops both at work and at play. Plans have been practically completed by Lieut. Col. Frank J. Schneller, brigade executive officer, Neenah, for a field meet between two infantry regiments for Thursday afternoon. Nearly 200 men will compete and the two regimental bands will be combined to furnish music for the occasion.

Gen. Robert B. McCoy, brigade commander, announced that the brigade will march in review in honor of the visitors.

The training program for Friday calls for practice in hasty field fortifications, preparation for combat firing, care and nomenclature of arms and equipment for the morning, and a practice march by battalions for the afternoon. Lieut. Col. Collin H. Bull, senior instructor, will lecture to officers on "the principals of tactics" Friday night.

Adventures of the Twins

SPRINKLE-BOW'S ORDERS

"Please!" begged Nancy, when Mr. Muskrat began to scold the fairy-weatherman for letting Old Man Flood out. "If you please, it wasn't his fault at all. It was Nick's and mine."

"Who's Nick?" asked Mr. Muskrat. "My twin brother," explained Nancy, "and he's gone to see if Old Man Flood broke down Builder Beaver's dam. We went up to the sky to hunt up Mr. Sprinkle-Bow, the Weather-man, and by mistake, we opened the wrong door. Old Man Flood got out before we could shut it again."

Just then Nick came in sight. He was pretty wet, but shouted joyously when he saw them. "Hello, everybody," he cried. "Builder Beaver's dam is all right so far, but if Old Man Flood keeps up his pushing much longer, I'm afraid it will break through."

"Well, well, well!" said Sprinkle-Bow in a relieved voice, mopping his brow with a red hanky. "Things are turning out much better than I expected. I flew out to sea in my magic umbrella, to hunt Marty Mink on his piece of ice, but he wasn't there. The ice that he was having a party on had only gone as far as the river and stuck behind a rock. I helped them all ashore, so they're safe. Now then, Jack Frost, it's time for you to get busy. You make things pretty cool, but you're a sight safer than that rescal, Old Man Flood. And you're the only one who can undo his work. Now go around and hunt up all the little streams and blow your breath on them. Instantly the ice-stoppers will fly back into place and the water will stop, and Old Man Flood will see this his good time is over and sneak back up to the sky where he belongs. We shall take good care that he doesn't get out again this year."

Don't Forget Peppers

Peppers can be used for the main dish of many a meal and at the same time use up left-overs. Left-over meat or vegetable dishes reheated in peppers gains an extra richness of flavor.

If peppers are parboiled for a few minutes before using the thin tough skin may be slipped off.

Peppers Stuffed with Rice and Nuts. Four large green peppers, 1 cup nut meats, 1 cup cooked rice, 1 tea-chopped meat (left-over), 1 cup stale bread crumbs, 1/4 teaspoon celery salt, 1 1/2 cups meat gravy, salt and pepper.

Prepare peppers as in preceding recipe. Mix remaining ingredients, adding milk if mixture is not moist. Fill peppers with mixture. Cover with bread crumbs, dot with bits of butter and bake till crumbs are brown on top.

Peppers and Macaroni.

Three peppers, 1 onion, 2 tablespoons bacon fat, 2 cups cooked macaroni, 1 cup chopped cooked meat, salt and pepper.

Melt fat and add sliced onion and peppers cut in shreds. Fry until spoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, milk to make moist.

Remove tops from peppers and cut out cores and seeds. Parboil for ten minutes. Drain. Mix nuts, rice, salt, onion, parsley with egg slightly beaten. Add milk to make moist. Fill peppers with mixture, cover with top and bake in a moderate oven for half an hour. Baste frequently with hot water and a little melted butter. Bread crumbs may be substituted for the rice if there is no rice "left-over."

Peppers Stuffed with Meat. Four large green peppers, 1 cup tender. Add macaroni and meat and cook, stirring occasionally for ten minutes. Serve very hot.

AUTOMOBILE GYPSIES PAY BRIEF VISIT HERE

Two automobile loads of gypsies stopped in the city for a short time Friday evening. The machines stopped in front of the police station where the occupants could readily be informed to keep moving and not ply their fortune telling trade here. They loaded up with gasoline and left at once.

There were three men and about half a dozen women in the party, together with fully a dozen children. They were clad in true gypsy attire. The machines had covered truck bodies and were loaded with camping equipment.

Both cars bore Illinois licenses. The families live in Chicago, spending their winters there and traveling through the northern country all summer. There were more automobiles to this group, but were believed to have passed through earlier. The adults could talk broken English and the older children were quite fluent in their conversation.

POLICE SEEKING AUTO RACERS ON LAKE-ST

Authorities are attempting to establish the identity of two automobile drivers who staged a race on Lake-st. about 8:30 Thursday night. One machine was a Studebaker roadster and the other was a Ford coupe. The license number of one machine has already been obtained and further investigation is being made to secure the license number of the other.

Confessions of a Bride

(Copyright 1920)

A Slave to Love

How Chrystobel could have so tangled up her matrimonial affairs I could understand only because I knew Hamilton Certes so well. As a physician, the man had made a great name before the war, Certes was a genius. Bob had likened him to Leonardo more than once. He was a chemist, sufficient reason why Daddy Lorimer had needed him with the Lorimer Co. He was an inventor, his diving suit with respirator permitted a man to walk freely on the ocean bed, at a certain depth. He was an art connoisseur. As a brain and nerve specialist he had accomplished difficult cures. To Daddy, for years his best friend, Certes had confided the secret of his miracles: Hypnotism!

In spite of her intelligence Chrystobel was susceptible to suggestion. She was always taking up some fantastic eastern cult; she had been an ardent ouija devotee and a student of spiritism. She abandoned one mysticism only to embrace another. Her sensitive mind was easily impressed by the fascination which Certes could exercise when it served his purpose.

That purpose was to make himself the son-in-law of the lion, James D. Lorimer, munitions maker and multimillionaire; as such he would be above suspicion, he fancied.

At the time of her marriage, Chrystobel had not met Jordan Spence. And except for Jordan Spence, I think my sister-in-law would have cared little whether she was a spinster, wife or widow. She possessed every material thing dear to the heart of woman. No human being walked the earth more free than this lovely young woman. She would have been perfectly happy except for Jordan Spence—except for Love!

Her hasty marriage to Certes was to her like a scene in a drama of which she was the heroine. Her own experiences amused her. Her life was like a plot the denouement of which she could not guess. Her wealth, her leisure gave her unlimited opportunities to star in her part. Chrystobel would have been delighted with her role—except for Jordan Spence. She, who could have been free and happy, in spite of Certes, was as much a slave to love as I.

Bob Lorimer's jealous little wife! Love accounted for the complexities of her character and the contradictions in her conduct; just so, love accounted for poor me!

Our tramp over the Lorimer estate that balmy spring morning ended rather abruptly. We had wandered to the most secluded section of the park when I noticed that Chrystobel was wearing her wonderful sapphire ring. Certes had given it to her for a wedding ring. It was a treasure, he had guaranteed it to bring her good luck.

The stone was conspicuously valuable, rich loot for a highwayman. More than once I had fancied that I had heard a twig snap on the other side of the wall which separated the Lorimer and Miller acres. I was uneasy, as nervous as a deer which feels itself tracked by a hunter.

CHARGE SON WITH SLAYING MOTHER

Man Is Arrested Four Years After Disappearance of Aged Woman.

Hayward, Wis.—The climax of the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Mary Hill, four years ago, was written on Wednesday, when county authorities arrested E. L. Hill, her son, on a murder charge. The arrest followed the reported discovery of bones in a boat sunk in Squaw bay. Officials, while claiming that Hill's arrest has solved the woman's disappearance, the story of which is packed the county jail at this time, are reluctant to reveal the specific results of the investigation which resulted in the arrest.

Evidence indicating that Hill murdered his mother will be presented at the preliminary hearing, set for Aug. 16, officials declared on Wednesday. Mrs. Hill disappeared four years ago. At that time suspicions were voiced that the woman had met with foul play, but an investigation failed to reveal any clue to her disappearance. Hill was questioned at the time, but was released by police.

Bones, purporting to be those of Mrs. Hill, are said to have been found by Indians paddling through Squaw bay last week. Residents of this part of Wisconsin recall how, in 1917, Mrs. Hill left her home in Durand to visit a neighbor and never returned. Her son at that time lived at Round Lake.

After an unsuccessful combing of the surrounding woods, that continued for more than a week, the search was abandoned.

School Board Has Not Authority to Purchase the Property, Is Ruling.

Kaukauna.—An attempt by the city school board to purchase Eden park near the western limits of the city on the south side of the river has met with an obstruction.

At the annual school meeting July 5, the patrons acted favorably on a resolution asking that the school board be given authority to purchase the park as a playground in order that it might not be lost to the city for recreation purposes. After this resolution had been accepted it was voted to authorize the school board to levy a tax for $5,000 to buy the park from Fred F. Wettengel of Appleton.

Immediate steps to purchase the park were prevented by the demurrals of members of the board who declared that the school district had no authority to purchase park property. Those in favor of the transaction maintained that the board could purchase the property as a playground.

Attorney Joseph W. Lefevre was called in to give legal advice in the controversy. He directed the board's attention to specific provisions in the state law which makes it clear that a school board may purchase property only for school and playground sites and for teacherage sites. Eden park could not be legally purchased as a playground site because it is half a mile or more from the school-house and its use for either of the other two purposes is out of the question so its purchase by the school district is legally impossible.

Opinion of many citizens is in favor of the city purchasing a park site on the south side of the river and when it was learned that the city council did not favor such a proposition, the matter was taken up as a school matter in the annual school meeting.

The matter of purchasing 14 acres known as Klein park, not far from the tract known as Eden park, has also received consideration. It is understood that the city could purchase this property for $4,700.

KENOSHA SHAKEUP NEAR AS 2 OFFICIALS RESIGN

Kenosha.—Kenosha county's official circles are astir over the resignation on Thursday of Peter Fisher, Jr., as district attorney, and of Thomas Fleming of the town of Salem, as one of the jury commissioners of the county. The resignations come, officials said, as a result of the special grand jury investigation of vice conditions in Kenosha county. It was also learned from an official source that Fleming's resignation was filed after he had made a statement to the grand jury concerning the letting of contracts.

Which kind of battery service satisfies you?

It may satisfy you to be told that you need a new battery. Wouldn't it satisfy you more to be shown why?

This service station tests your battery, if your presence, with scientific instruments which unerringly show its condition.

You see these tests.

If they show weakness, the battery is taken out and put on our re-charging bench. We loan you a battery to use in the meantime. If charging does not bring your battery up to normal, you are notified promptly and on your arrival the battery is opened in your presence so that you can see exactly where the trouble lies.

You are then informed of the cost of the repair or replacement in advance, which cost is determined by a fixed tariff of charges. No repairs are made until you are satisfied they are necessary and authorize them. Nor do we try to sell you a new battery until we have enabled you to get all the service possible out of your present one.

This is Vesta Service, and it applies to all makes of batteries.

Milwaukee Man Gains 17 Pounds Taking Tanlac and Looks And Feels Like a New Man

"I wish I could tell everybody of the wonderful good Tanlac has done me," said William C. Duchrow, of 2824 Milwaukee-Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., well-known trunkmaker for the McKane-Lins Co.

"Why, besides putting me in good health Tanlac has actually built me up seventeen pounds in weight, and that's what I call going some. When I got hold of the medicine I had no appetite at all and was having all kinds of trouble with my stomach. Nothing seemed to agree with me and I suffered terribly from indigestion and bloating. I just felt like I was burning up all the time and would get so weak and dizzy I could hardly stay on my feet. My blood must have been bad too, for my face would break out in pimples, and the more medicine I took the worse off it seems I got until I finally began taking Tanlac.

"Well, sir, it didn't take Tanlac long to bring me around, for it soon rid me of the indigestion and built me up to where I felt like a new man. In fact the medicine has put an end to all my troubles and I'm feeling fine in every way. The boys down at the shop are all talking about the wonderful change in my condition, and it's no wonder, for the difference can be seen at a glance."

PROTEST AGAINST NEW FREIGHT ORDER

Manufacturers Oppose Discontinuation of Junction Freight Depot.

Centralization of the handling of freight in Appleton by the Northwestern Railway Co. is being strenuously opposed by Appleton Junction manufacturers who have filed protests with the company's officials.

Word has reached them that the company plans to handle all its freight from the down town freight depot which they claim would put them to a great deal of inconvenience. One of the advantages which induced them to build their plants at the Junction was the freight facilities it offered.

In concentrating its freight at one point the railway company claims it can handle the business to better advantage and that is the reason no freight has been received at the Ashland division depot for several years. It is also the policy followed by the company in large cities which usually have but one freight depot.

EXPRESSMEN HEAR OF CUT IN THEIR WAGES

Unofficial reports of a reduction of wages of American Railway express workers on Aug. 1 have reached local employees. The reduction amounts to 6 cents an hour. Increases of approximately 16 cents an hour were granted the men in 1920, hence the proposed reduction will leave them with 10 cents an hour more than they were receiving a year ago.

More than 50,000 workers will be effected in the whole country and about 12 in Appleton. W. N. Kimball, local manager, said no announcement of the cut has reached his office and the only information he has received came from railway expressmen.

DEFER SUNDAY CONCERT FOR BURIAL OF HEROES

The concert which was to have been given at Fourth ward school grounds Sunday evening by the Artillery band has been postponed until the band members return from Camp Douglas. This action was taken because of the arrival of the bodies of Edward Weinfurter and William Hageman early Friday morning. These heroes of the Rainbow division both were residents of the Fourth ward and their bodies will lie in state over Sunday at the late homes. The date of the next concert will be announced later.

HIGH LIVING COSTS ARE HARD ON RETIRED FARMERS

Many farmers who sold their farms a decade ago and moved to Appleton to pass their declining days are having a hard time to make both ends meet. They retired with an income sufficient at that time to meet their wants, but did not plan on conditions changing. Their living expenses are now nearly double what they were then and taxes have increased nearly 100 per cent, while their investments placed in long term bonds draw no higher rate of interest. A few farmers retired on an income of $800 and now find it necessary to do odd jobs in order to defray their expenses.

Bandit Scorned "Change" For Bills Of Large Value

until Miss Monica Kraft, receiving teller emerged from her imprisonment in the vault and excitedly told them a large sum of money had been stolen.

Saw Man Littering
Persons near the bank said they saw a man answering the description loitering on the opposite side of College-ave, before the robbery occurred. He was leaning up against a monument and eyeing the building.

Reports gained currency during the afternoon that the gang which robbed the Wabeno bank several days ago also turned this trick. This story started when it was found that three men and two women had alighted from a train Thursday morning at Appleton Junction. The Wabeno gang was described similarly, except that the men were said to be younger than the Appleton bandit, who was said to be about 40 years old.

Can Identify Him.
Mr. Dohr and Miss Kraft had ample opportunity to size up the man and believe they could readily identify him. There was some doubt about whether he had a coat, but both tellers agree that he wore a khaki shirt and trousers of dark material. He also had a blue necktie. There was a growth of beard of about three days on his face.

The bandit, after requiring both persons to "stick 'em up," ordered them to turn about and walk straight into the vault. He lost a little time removing a shelf beard that prevented the inner shell doors from closing, but finally succeeded in confining them. Both listened intently to what was going on outside. They heard no noise except when the man walked.

Mr. Dohr heard a door slam and whispered to Miss Kraft that he believed the man to be gone. He struck a match and was about to release the man when he heard more footsteps. There was further listening until the slam of the spring gate closing Mr. Groh's office off the lobby was heard. A second slam was heard as the man seized the outside door, which was open, and slammed it at his heels as he stepped away. This was enough proof that danger was over, and the two came out of the safe. Mr. Dohr stepped to the telephone and summoned the police immediately.

It is the opinion of Mr. Groh that the burglar alarm would not have helped matters if it had been in operation. The system was installed two months ago, he said, but wiring from the bank to the police station had been completed only recently. Everything had been done except making connections at the bank with the outside wires. About a foot of wire was required and only a small amount of effort, and this a local electric company was planning to do. It took longer than expected to complete the work, because the wiring had to be strung partly on poles of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company and the remainder on traction company poles. All push buttons were in place, but Mr. Groh said Mr. Dohr would have had no opportunity to reach the alarm.

First Robbery Here.
This is believed to be the first bank robbery in the history of Appleton. Sergeant James McCabe has served with the police force for 26 years, and cannot recall a bank robbery within that time. The police department nevertheless has been prepared for a holdup or robbery and quickly spread a dragnet to capture the fleeing man. Bank alarms and the alarm at the city hall have been touched off several times by accident and the department has answered the call only to find it a false alarm. High-powered shotguns were added to the equipment recently and were carried by searchers in this instance.

All officers on night duty were summoned from their homes immediately and assigned to cover different portions of the city or surrounding country. Uniforms were removed and plain clothes substituted. Several automobiles were loaned by citizens to aid in covering the rural districts. One report reaching the police station was that a Marmon automobile had been seen speeding away from the city on New London-rd. shortly after the time of the holdup. A fast automobile containing an armed officer was sent in pursuit and overtook the man at Waupesa. He proved to be Stephen Meyer of Chicago, a piano salesman. All trains were searched and passengers leaving the city scrutinized closely. Interurban and street car employees, taxicab drivers, bus drivers and others who travel about were given a description of the man. All surrounding cities were notified by telephone to look out for the man or men. The news and description also were flashed to all neighboring newspapers and to the press associations in an effort to aid capture.

Nothing has caused so much excitement or interest in Appleton in a long time. Knots of people patrolled here and there in the downtown section to discuss the matter. They wondered how far away the bandit had gotten, or whether he was within the city. Newspapers were grabbed eagerly. People sitting in automobiles or walking, or standing on the streets were reading about it. There was a constant throng around the police station waiting for some new detail or news that the man had been captured. There also was a desire to cooperate. Everybody that had a clew, or what appeared to be a clew or even a slight hint reported it to the officers.

Edward P. Cunningham, private detective for the Wisconsin Bankers association, was in Green Bay when the robbery occurred. He was at work on the Wabeno case when news of the holdup here reached him. He left for Appleton and was on the job here about 2 o'clock.

CHEESE ADVANCES 3 CENTS ON LOCAL MARKET

Cheese advanced 3 cents on the market this week and is now selling at 19 cents per pound. The butter market remained stationary at 40 cents per pound. The reduction in the supply of milk due to the drying up of pastures still remains at 30 per cent, the occasional showers and cool weather not having relieved the situation.

A Banquet That Was Almost a Tragedy

"Three years ago at a banquet I was stricken with acute indigestion. Two doctors worked over me for an hour before I came to. I had had severe colic attacks before, but nothing like that. No doctors or medicine gave me permanent help until a friend, who was at the banquet advised me to take a course of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I did with wonderful results." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Elaborate plans have been made for the annual picnic of the local United Commercial Travelers association which will be held from noon to midnight Saturday at Menasha Park, Menasha. Games and contests of all kinds will be held in the afternoon for the members and also for the children. Prizes will be awarded. Music will be furnished by one of the most popular orchestras of the Fox River valley. The association will furnish coffee, cream and treats for the children. A basket lunch will be served at 6 o'clock which will be followed by dancing. The picnic is being planned under the direction of the following committee: C. G. Rumpf, George Ewen, George Murphy, W. H. Bonini, Glen Julius, Lee Vander Linden, F. R. Finn and W. G. Paterson.

BANK PUBLICATION IS STARTED ON SECOND YEAR

The first number of the second volume of the Farm News edited and published by the First National bank made its appearance Wednesday morning and is filled with interesting matter for farmers to whose interests it is devoted. On the first page appears a picture of a field of corn on the farm of Charles Kesting and Son in the town of Grand Chute which was higher than a man's head on July 11, and on the second and third pages are pictures of cows owned by F. D. Breitrick and Sons and Edward Lorenz and a picture of the boys' and girls' club of the First National bank. The issue is devoted almost exclusively to the raising of cattle.

Mrs. Frank Heinzen and children are leaving for Escanaba, Mich., to visit Mrs. Heinzen's parents.

Frank VanHandel of the Citizens National bank is enjoying a vacation with his family at a summer cottage at Lake Winnebago.

Mrs. H. W. Meyer, Sr., has returned from a month's visit in Chicago and other Illinois cities.

Hay And Straw Must Be Weighed On City Scales

There is one city ordinance which City Weighmaster J. E. Rose believes few people know anything about. It is ordinance 17 which provides that no one is allowed to sell hay or straw in the city unless it has been weighed on the city scales by the city weighmaster, the city sealer or the deputy weighmaster.

Just why the ordinance makes this distinction is not understood. Nevertheless anyone violating the ordinance is liable if a complaint is entered against him. Mr. Rose believes that the violations which do occur are the result of ignorance of the ordinance.

The largest loads weighed on the city scales are loads of ice and these weigh sometimes as much as five tons or more. The scales will weigh anything from two and one-half to 30,000 pounds. Large machines such as threshing machines, tractors, etc., sometimes are barely within the limit and a few could not be weighed because they exceeded the capacity of the scales.

As a rule, large machines of this sort are weighed only because of mere curiosity or because the owner must know the weight of his machine so that he may drive it safely about the country. Weak bridges are generally labeled with the largest weight they will carry and if persons use the bridge to transport weights in excess of this they must assume all responsibility.

The scales are tested with standard 50-pound cast iron weights furnished by the United States government. The state inspector of weights and measures tests the weights annually and sees that they are standard. Should the weight have lost a fraction of a grain he adds molten lead and should the weight exceed the standard he chips out enough lead to make the iron weigh exactly correct.

GERMANY WILL NOT FIGHT OVER TREATY WITH U. S.

By United Press Leased Wire
Berlin—Preliminaries for a German-American treaty to follow the declaration of peace, were drafted here Thursday.

Lorin Dreese, American charge d'affaires, and Baron Rosen for Germany, conducted the negotiations, which were carefully guarded.

Germany, according to prominent men in touch with the situation, is preparing a draft in which there are no reservations.

There will be no quibbling they said, the German attitude being that a formal agreement with the United States is a necessity and that above all Germany must quickly resume her old footing with her former enemy.

Government Specifications for Gasoline Do Not Mention Gravity

When the Government buys gasoline for Army or Navy use, it does not consider gravity. It specifies various temperatures at which definite amounts of the gasoline shall vaporize; in other words, it fixes the low and high boiling points, and specifies that the intermediate boiling point fractions must be so arranged as to boil off at the correct temperature to insure a maximum of service.

Red Crown

—the High-Grade Gasoline Has a Perfect Chain of Boiling Point Fractions

Red Crown more than meets Government specifications. Its initial is about 40 degrees F. lower, meaning easier starting than the Government requires.

Red Crown has the correct range of boiling point fractions to insure quick getaway, smooth acceleration, and the correct range for tremendous power and speed. Red Crown is fast gas.

Red Crown is the best gasoline you can buy. It will give you better service, more power, more speed, and greater mileage per gallon. It is a waste of money to pay more than the price of Red Crown.

TOMMY GIBBONS DOES TRAINING IN NORTH WOODS

Scraper Puts on Fat and Then Converts It Into Real Muscle.

(This is another of the stories Tommy Gibbons, challenger for the light heavyweight title, is waiting for the Post-Crescent. Gibbons fights George Carpenter in October and is expected to be the next man to fight champion Jack Dempsey.)

BY TOMMY GIBBONS.
Light Heavyweight Challenger.
Osakis, Minn.—I will do most of my training for Carpenter up here in the northern Minnesota woods.

For the last five years I have been coming to my cottage on Osakis lake to hunt fish swim and rough it out doors. That conditions me best for fighting.

I have a new goal to work for now. But I don't intend to alter my plans except I will pay more attention to building myself up than ever before.

Previous to this year I had always figured that my natural fighting weight was 160 pounds. When I weighed over that, I thought I wasn't in good condition.

I know better now. Since I went to England a year ago last May I have never trained down.

Trip Abroad.
It was on the boat going over that I discovered I had a knockout punch. I boxed with a sparring partner for both Carpenter and Joe Beckett.

The first day I knocked him out with a right. The second day I tried my left on him and got the same results.

I talked it over with my manager, Eddie Kane, as we always do my fighting plans.

We decided that my new found strength was due to being overweight—that is over 160 pounds, the weight at which I had been used to fighting.

Since then I have tried to build myself up.

In the last year I have actually grown. I am an inch taller and weigh 174 to 175 pounds when in ring condition.

My idea of weight building is to take on fat and gradually built it into muscular tissues.

The outdoor life here is just the thing I need. It makes me rugged. I will take on weight so as to be four or five pounds above 175, the weight I am to make for Carpenter. Then I will have something to go on when I start the real grind.

I don't believe in long periods of training. Two weeks is long enough to prepare for any fight—I mean the real stuff with sparring partners.

I have been doing a lot of swimming since coming here. It's a hardener, and a muscle-builder—now.

But I'll keep right on doing a lot of canoeing, fishing, hunting and roughing it during July and August.

Next month I can use my dog, Dick, to run birds. It will give me a lot of training.

I think Carpenter had the right idea in his training for Dempsey.

He boxed only on the days he felt like it and he didn't burn himself out.

I believe there is such a thing as a boxer going stale.

Carpenter tried to build himself up to Dempsey's weight, but the time was too short.

Weight-making—the kind that does you good—can't be done in a few weeks or a month. It must be done gradually. It is to make you really stronger and not slow you up.

One hundred and seventy-five will be my natural weight when I meet Carpenter in October. After that I'll build myself up more so as to be ready for Dempsey.

JIM FLYNN TOTING POLICEMAN'S STICK

Pueblo Cop Wants Another Chance in Ring With Jack Dempsey.

Pueblo, Col.—Jim Flynn, known throughout the United States as the Pueblo brawler, has deserted the ring. He has laid away the boxing gloves and is now wearing the uniform of the Pueblo police department.

On July 4 Flynn met "Sugar" Kellner, Pacific coast heavyweight at Montrose, Col., and lost on a foul in the eleventh round after winning the battle up to that point.

He returned to his home and issued a challenge to any heavyweight in the country to fight a benefit performance for the Pueblo flood sufferers.

Flynn's challenge was unanswered and he immediately took the civil service examination for patrolman and was accepted.

Still Has Hope
Flynn still has hope of third match with Jack Dempsey. He knocked Dempsey out in one round at Murray, Utah, in 1917 and the following year Dempsey turned the tables and knocked the Puebloan in the initial round.

He believes that he is entitled to a third match with Dempsey for he is the only one on record who ever landed the hayo punch on the present heavyweight champion.

Flynn's record shows that he has been a trial horse for most of the first raters. He fought Dempsey twice, Jack Johnson, once Sam Langford three times, Fred Fulton Carl Morris, Tommy Burns, Battling Linsky, Hugh Walker and several other prominent "white hopes."

Although Flynn has been in the ring game for 22 years he appears to be in good shape yet. And he isn't kidding about wanting another whack at Dempsey, the man-killer.

Ring Titles Pass On — No Back

Pete Herman

When Joe Lynch beat him last winter in Madison Square Garden he did it fair and square.

Herman stood open-mouthed and crest fallen in one corner of the ring as the referee raised Lynch's right hand and proclaimed him the new bantam king.

Best Fight
It was the best fight Lynch had ever put up in his life. He has never fought as well since.

Herman, on the other hand, has fought some of his most impressive fights since the royal toga slipped from his shoulders.

The New Orleans Italian boy has made a comeback that is truly remarkable.

Leaving his crown behind him he rushed to London and knocked out Jimmy Wilde in a sensational fight.

Since then he has kayoed Jim Higgins, England's bantam champion. In all his fights since he met his Waterloo at Tex Rickard's Garden he has been a new kind of ring terror.

New Tactics
The answer is that he has been giving his best and then some every time he puts up his hands. While he was champ he let the other fellow do most of the fighting.

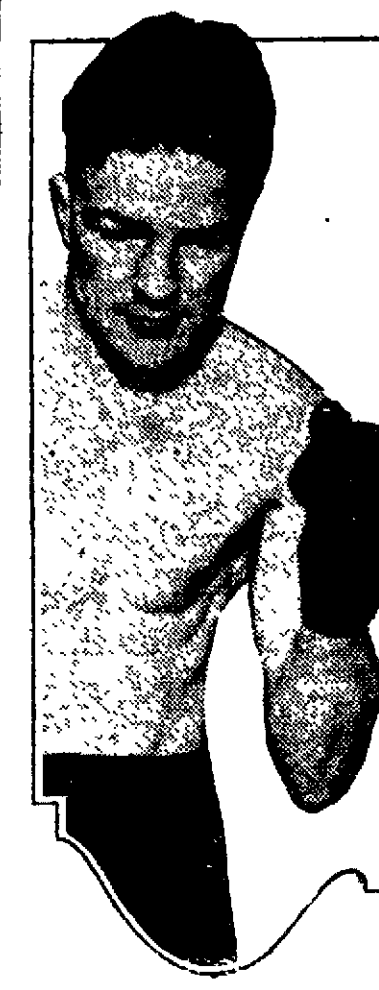

Lynch has had but few matches since he copped. In these he has shown only flashes of the class he displayed the night he won the title. Yet he has shown enough stuff to win the judges or newspaper decisions.

When they meet in Brooklyn next week both will be in the well known pink. Each has the family jewels down on himself to win. That's what makes a fight worth seeing.

But can Herman retrace his step to the throne he was brushed from?

Ping Pong Title
Jack Britton, welter champ, is the only present king of swat who made a comeback. He did it against Kid Lewis. These two fellows were mighty evenly matched.

And so are Herman and Lynch. It wouldn't be surprising to see these two lads ping pong the bantam title back and forth between them just as Britton and Lewis did the welter.

All the champions seem to have a strong grip on the halo stuff except Lynch.

BLACK SOX SPLIT OVER BURNS' STORY

Every Man for Himself Is New Defense Method Adopted at Trial.

Chicago, Ill.—The solid ranks of the "Black Sox" have been split and each player fought a lone battle for liberty Friday.

"Everyone for himself" is now the code of the seven former White Sox stars charged with making a fake of the 1919 world series and selling the classic out to the highest bidder.

The eight or ten lawyers for the defense, who at the beginning of the trial decided to present a solid front, have dissolved their agreement.

The rift came as the result of the testimony of "Bill" Burns, confessed stakeholder and gambler's tool during the world series.

Burns' story of the fake series incriminated some players and left others untouched. Those who were not involved do not want to go down in the event of a crash; therefore the dissolution.

Burns charged Eddie Cicotte and "Chick" Gandil with engineering the plot in New York a week or so before the series opened in Cincinnati. Other defendants do not want to get mixed up in this damaging bit of evidence.

FORMER WARDEN SCORES LENIENCY TO PRISONERS

Madison, Wis.—That there is too much sentimentality in the handling of criminals in this country is the effect of a statement issued on Wednesday by Henry Town, a member of the state board of control and former Waupun warden.

Mr. Town was discussing the troubles at the Pennsylvania penitentiary and pointed out that too much sympathy is offered by organizations in favor of criminals and not enough in favor of the families of victims.

"It is impossible to make a success of government by the people unless crime is properly punished," declared Henry Town. "All government fails unless founded on force when necessary."

Will Attend Convention
Louis Keller, local representative, leaves for Boston Monday, Aug. 8, where he will attend the annual convention of the New York Mutual Life Insurance Co. which will be in session the following Thursday and Friday.

The only agents invited to attend are those who have written $250,000 or more during the year. This will make the third convention Mr. Keller has attended, the other two having been held at Salt Lake last year and at Portland, Ore., the year previous.

DEMPSEY JUMPS FROM FRYING PAN INTO FIRE

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—In trying to beat an attachment on his $6,000 car, Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, declared himself to be a citizen of New York State income tax officials couldn't find his name on the books and they are after him now. He made no return for the car and has made himself liable to a tax double the value of the car or $12,000, and the possibility of a fine.

Even Break
In our bout with France we have broken even.

Mike Suzanne Lenglen defeated our powerful Molla Burestedt Malory in tennis over there.

Jack Dempsey finished Georges Carpentier, the idol of France, over here in four rounds with a knockout.

That makes it even Steven so far as France is concerned.

Now the army of athletic stars is shifting to this side of the water.

After we get through with our national open golf tournament, our national woman's tennis tourney in August and our Davis cup matches in September maybe Johnny Bull will have won some of our silverware.

We doubt it.

Eighty-seven per cent of the impressions we receive are through the eye, say psychologists.
